Officials Accepting Monies
Are Now Faced With Prosecution

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Heavy bribes—the amounts running as high as $30,000 a week—were passed out for months back to "the right parties" by the North Atlantic liquor syndicate which the Federal Government has just broken up in simultaneously executed raids in New Jersey, New York and Long Island. This was disclosed today in the examination of two little black books seized in the raid on the former Oscar Hammerstein estate at Highlands, N. J., occupied by the ring as its "headquarters."

Officials and police in certain New Jersey towns who accepted this graft face prosecution, prohibition administrator William J. Calhoun, generalissimo of the raids, indicated as his sleuths proceeded with their investigation of names on the syndicate's "fix list."

The records also showed that the syndicate, which supplied all of the "imported" liquor to New York City, and the East, made a profit of $2,000,000 in the last six months. Business was increasing steadily and the big rum firm, which "ran" booze in on ships from Newfoundland to Bermuda, was preparing to expand. In March of this year the syndicate paid out $700,000 for "ships, merchandising and operating expenses."

Search for the "ringleaders" of the syndicate went forward today. Federal officials indicated that the thirty-two men who were rounded up in the raids were "the smaller fry." Several of the leaders are believed to have fled to Canada.

Not much credence was given by Federal officials to the theory that banks may have been in league with the rum ring in its "business." The authorities, however, impounded the accounts of the syndicate with seven banks. One is in Newark, two others in other New Jersey towns, three in New York City and one in Long Island. It is generally believed that these banks had no knowledge of the character of the rum runners' business.

Meanwhile, dry agents were continuing their investigations at the syndicate's headquarters at Highlands. They were searching the "fortresses" and its environs for liquor caches. They already have $1,000,000 worth of rare liquors in their possession. Search was also being made at points along the Atlantic coast line for secret landing places for the rum fleet.

"Somewhere at sea" are half a dozen rum ships belonging to the syndicate. One of these ships was believed yesterday to have been trapped by the United States coast guard service but apparently managed to escape as no word of its capture had been received at Calhoun's office in Trenton up to this morning. Coast guard officials reported, however, that three vessels seized during the last two months were the property of the syndicate.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, of New York, said today that the organization had international connections, with agencies in England, Canada and elsewhere. They operated, he said, from Maine to the Virginia Capes.

Tells Rotary Club How Stainless Steel Developed

At the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club, yesterday, Dr. T. Holland Nelson, past-president of the Conshohocken Rotary Club, and an honorary member of a Rotary Club in England, made the address of the afternoon.

Dr. Nelson gave a very interesting talk on "Stainless Steel." He is the president of the Chrome Alloy Products Co., of Conshohocken.

The speaker explained how he was an assistant to a distinguished metallurgist in one of the great steel plants in England prior to the World War.

The research department was instructed to find an alloy that would resist the frictional heat and action of corrosive gasses occasioned by the firing of 16-inch guns. In experimenting with various chrome alloys some of the metal was left outdoors for some months and Dr. Nelson noticed that, unlike other steels, it did not rust.

Some time later a manufacturer of cutlery procured some of the alloy and developed the rustless steel now in general use. From that beginning, chrome alloy steel has been developed for use in turbines, and now is being developed for the chemical industry, which hitherto has used ceramic and glass retorts for the production of corrosive acids.

RADIO INDUSTRY SURVEY SHOWS FINE PROSPECTS

Enters End of Year "Best Prepared Industry for Efficient Service"

CUNNINGHAM SPEAKS

This is one of a series of articles on the fall business outlook by W. S. Cousins, International News Service Financial Editor.

By W. S. Cousins
I. N. S. Financial Editor
(Copyright, 1929, by I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—"With ten million radio sets now in use in this country, and potential sales awaiting in thirty million other homes, the radio industry enters the closing of 1929, the best prepared in its history to render efficient service to the American public."

E. T. Cunningham, president of E. T. Cunningham, Inc., manufacturers of radio tubes, in surveying prospects in the radio industry for International News Service today, emphasized the growing field for "replacements" as well as radio sets in the homes of the American people. From 75 to 80 per cent of total sales of sets and accessories are going into the home where an older set already existed, increasing enormously the potential market for radio goods, according to this well-known manufacturer.

"Some time ago," said Mr. Cunningham, "the radio world discovered that from 75 to 80 per cent of its total sales of sets and accessories were 'replacements.' Hence it is that while the scope of radio prosperity is in general ratio to the soundness of business conditions as a whole, it has also in its replacement field a definite and permanent market of great extent, upon which it always can depend."

"With 10,000,000 radio sets now in use in this country, it will be seen that the replacement business assures the radio industry of a market of several million new buyers. Potential sales also are awaiting in 20,000,000 other homes, in which there is no radio equipment as yet."

Mr. Cunningham points out that a decade of progress within the radio industry has brought a marvelous degree of mechanical perfection to its product. The radio sets of 1929, he declared, can well claim to give absolute reproduction of original tonal values of any type of broadcast program. Hence he says, manufacturers have abandoned their slogan of "a better set than last year's" to that of "maximum performance."

"Added to this ability of the radio to produce life-like interpretations of what it receives from the air, is the increasing excellency of broadcast programs in general," said the head of the Cunningham Company. "These two phases have made the present-day radio eagerly desired in the average American home."

"In this movement, in which we say that radio had left the luxury stage to the assured position of a necessity, we find that the betterment of radio programs has been a distinctive factor."

Mass production and greater efficiency within the industry has brought remarkable increase in the quality of sets offered, at price levels far below those of a few years back.

"Demand," Mr. Cunningham says, "has been created through the substantial economic basis of providing something that has become a tangible necessity. The 'eye appeal' in cabinet designing has been added to the 'ear appeal' of the set's performance, and this applies not to one or two manufacturers, but to the industry in general. Prevailing prices for radio equipment are far below those of a few years back."

JEWISH PEOPLE WILL CELEBRATE "SUKKOTH"

Feast of Tabernacles Begins
This Evening for Hebrews
All Over the World

FEAST OF THANKSGIVING PROGRAM IS ARRANGED

This evening the Jewish people all over the world will open its celebration of the Feast of Tabernacles, known in Hebrew as "Sukoth." The Bible classifies this festival with the Feast of Weeks and Passover—these being the only three occasions of the year during which the males were required to make pilgrimages to Jerusalem. The chief object of this festival is to express the feeling of the people toward nature at large. It stands as a reminder to the urge of nature and ushers in a period of thanksgiving, joy, and gladness.

Like Passover and the Feast of Weeks, Sukkoth was originally an agricultural festival. It marked the season of ingathering and closed the economic year in Palestine. To celebrate the season of the fruit harvest and to offer thanksgiving for nature's bounty during the year that passed, the people in Palestine gathered at the local shrines, offered sacrifices, and extolled the goodness of God. This celebration lasted seven days originally.

When the Temple of Jerusalem became the sole sanctuary in Palestine, the ritual of the Feast of Tabernacles was made more elaborate. The males of Israel had to make pilgrimages to Jerusalem with their first fruits and tithes. Sacrifices were offered on each of the seven days, symbolizing the reconciliation of all nations to God. Another day was added to the celebration of Sukkoth. The sacrifices of this eighth day symbolized the reconciliation of the Jewish people to God. The celebration reached its height at the ceremony of the libation of water, known in Hebrew as "Simchat Beth Hashachovah." The multitude gathered in the court of the Temple, sang songs and hymns, and participated in torch-dances.

With the destruction of the Temple, many of the ceremonies of the Feast of Tabernacles disappeared. The Sukkoth—the frail booth which observant Jews still build for this holiday—is to remind Israel today of the protection of God which the children of Israel received while dwelling in booths in their march through the wilderness. It is also to remind Jewry today of the protection which Israel enjoyed throughout all its wanderings following its exile from Palestine. The willow-branch, or "Lulav," as called in Hebrew, is still part of the Synagogue service for the Feast of Tabernacles. Observant Jews still march around the reading-desk, which is in the middle of the synagogue, with the "Lulav" in their hands.

Modern Jewry, however, though still building booths either on synagogue property or on the altar of the temple, is emphasizing rather the message of joy and gladness which this festival brings. It stresses Sukkoth as the Jewish Feast of Thanksgiving, which is, no doubt, the basis for the American Thanksgiving Day.

ENTER SEV'L SCHOOLS

Mother Invalid and Father Employed in Phila.; Drove About at Night

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 18.—Traveling about at night in an open buggy drawn by a white-spotted pony, three brothers, the oldest thirteen and ring-leader of the "gang," were taken into custody yesterday by Troop 11 John Bucci, of the State Police, for robbing school houses in Plumstead township and Pipersville.

Without parental control due to an invalid mother and a father who works in Philadelphia, the boys told the police officer they did not know why they did it.

Pencils, erasers, paper tablets, pens, a clock and a world sphere with a total value of $50 composed the loot that was found in a room of the oldest of the trio taken into custody by Trooper Bucci.

John Fazen, thirteen, and his brothers, Samuel, nine, and Mike, eight, are the sons of Gustave Fazen, of Smith's Corner. They are bright-looking lads, but underprivileged to the extent that proper home training is missing. Now they face a hearing in the Bucks county juvenile court for larceny.

Six school houses were robbed by the youthful trio.

John was the ring-leader. Little "Mike" was influenced by his older brother. He told the police he did not want to go along to do the robbing but he was compelled to. He said he used to sit on the window sill while John and Sam robbed.

Last Monday they robbed the Plumsteadville schools and the Groveland schools. Tuesday night they drove to Pipersville and robbed the schools there and Wednesday night the River Hill school in Plumstead township was robbed.

The first robbery took place on the night of October 4, when the Smith's Corner school was entered and the following day John admitted to Constable Edwin L. Myers, of Gardenville, that he had committed the robbery.

In spite of the warning of the constable John continued with the night escapades and urged his younger brothers to go with him. They broke windows in the school houses and gained an entrance in that manner.

When the buggy was filled up with loot the youths would drive home and go to bed.

Last winter John stole $30 from a Wisner resident but his father made good.

They will be arraigned in juvenile court before Judge Hiram H. Keller.

FORMER CORNWELLS RECTOR KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

READING, Oct. 14.—Rev. John Carr, a former assistant rector of St. Charles Church, Cornwells Heights, Pa., was killed today when his automobile collided with another car on the Pottsville Pike near Hamburg, injuring three occupants in the other car.

Father Carr was en route to Reading when his machine collided with the machine of J. Eugene Kiss, of Minersville.

It is believed the two were blinded by the lights of one another's car. Kiss and Mrs. Harry Potter, and Miss Della Wernert, occupants of Kiss's car, were injured. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Reading, suffering from cuts and bruises. Mrs. Kiss, the other occupant in the car, escaped injury.

Father Carr was at the St. Charles Church in Cornwells Heights until about two months ago, and was then transferred to a church on the outskirts of Reading.

Churches Need Better Brand Of People, Says Evangelist

The second of a series of evangelistic services which are being held in the Methodist Church took place last evening. The evangelist, the Rev. Harold St. Clair Carter preached an impressive sermon.

The subject last night was "The Christian's Greatest Ambition."

The evangelist said in part: "What is the Christian's greatest ambition? It is to so live for his Lord that when life is over he will hear Him say, 'well done thou good and faithful servant.'"

"What God needs today are men and women who will put God's business first. We don't need more people in our churches but we do need a better brand of people. What is hurting the cause of Christ are the small people, the babies that we have in our churches, people who if they don't have their way they pick up their marbles and go home."

"Oh that we would give ourselves to God, not our moneys, not simply our talents but ourselves, for it is not what we give, it is not what we do that counts, but it is what we are."

"If a fellow gives a few dollars to the church and gives a little of his time for the church but lives like the devil what good does he do for the Master's Cause? It's ourselves willingly given for Jesus sake and because we love Him that counts—do this and you will achieve the ambition that should possess the soul of every Christian and that is, hearing Him say 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant enter thou into the joys of thy Lord.'"

The subject for this evening is: "The Christian's Greatest Duty."

Violets in bloom in a meadow while apple trees are in blossom above is one of the unusual sights to be found on a farm near Pleasant Valley, Bucks County. I am told by one who travels from one section of Bucks to the other many times during the year.

"I actually saw the violets and picked one for my coat," said my informant. "And the apple trees were in blossom."

DO WE HAVE THE COURAGE?

Do we have the courage, or the sense, to face our own shortcomings to admit to ourselves and to all concerned our errors and mistakes?

If we do not have, there is little chance that we shall ever be much better equipped to fight our battles than we are today.

Only obstinacy refuses to confess error and only vanity declines to admit defeat. Obstinacy and vanity are drags upon the chariot of progress. Unless we cut them loose we do not get very far.

The same truth holds for the individual, the group, the community, the nation. History is replete with instances of fine heads battered against the impenetrable wall of unalterable fact, of fine causes lost by enthusiasts who clung tenaciously to original error, of cities stunted because they were too proud to change their habits, of nations wrecked upon the shoals of their selfish desire.

There is no shame in admitting failure or mistake, either to ourselves or to observers. We cannot long delude those who watch, and they will respect us the more highly if we frankly confess, when we miff the ball, that it was our fault.

As long as we are not too vain to face the facts of our conduct there is hope for us. But we will never be useful to our teammates in life as long as we hypnotize ourselves into belief that we have made a home run with the bases full after we have just struck out.

RENDEZVOUS

The home has ceased to be a mere port of last resort and becomes a cherished rendezvous. And the radio is responsible. If one may eat dinner at home and at the same time hear the melodious strains of a symphony orchestra, if one may roll up the parlor rug and dance to the jazz janglings of a metropolitan dance orchestra, if one may sit in smoking jacket and slippers and not miss the evening church service, there is no place like home.

The home is indebted to those new gold-dust twins, Neutrodyne and Heterodyne, for bringing back the wandering flock. The player-piano, the phonograph, the library, the open door all tried their skill at vamping with little success. Where they failed the radio succeeded. It isn't guaranteed against fading but the wireless wave is overworking the ball bat rack.

When McCormack and Bori sang for the radio, theatrical producers predicted the early decline of drama. The radio is in competition with late evening movies. As long as the radio programs offer talent of a high order the radio-owning public will stay home to hear and go out only to see.

Don't worry about the weather. There will be lots more.

The man who does the honorable thing never worries about justification.

Luxuries are relative. What is one man's car merely represent some home's mortgage.

Early to work and late to return has bought many a man an eight-cylinder sedan, while others "never had a chance."

A noted painter says he never saw a really pretty woman. What a pessimistic eye that man must use for his once-overs.

CORRECT FUEL FOR YOUR MOTOR

IMMENSE facilities for obtaining the right types of crude and refining it in huge quantities make it possible to bring to you this genuinely extra-powered Atlantic Gasoline without extra cost. Deep, scientific research has done something more....

It has put correctness into it—the most important of all motor fuel qualities. New-type Atlantic gives up its power at the right time—not too quickly, not too slowly. That accounts for its marvelously smooth combustion. Proper balance and absolute cleanness make ignition certain at all throttles and temperatures. That explains its amazingly easy starting and its ready response on acceleration. With all this, Atlantic is so complete-burning that maximum mileage is inevitable and carbon and valve grinding are forgotten relics.... ATLANTIC GASOLINE—the most efficient all-round fuel your motor has ever known—and the greatest money value in the field!

"DEATH VALLEY" SCOTTY WILL EVADE TOURISTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—(INS)—From Death Valley, California, via Tonopah, Nevada, comes the news that "Death Valley" Scotty, the West's most mysterious and one of its wealthiest miners, plans to desert his palace at the eastern entrance of Death Valley because "we are being run ragged by tourists." He will build a new palace on the summit of Telescope Peak, altitude 11,000 feet.

For years Scotty toiled for the gold in those hills. Then he found it. Where, no one knows. But it became known that Scotty would make quiet trips into the mountains that look down on sweltering Death Valley and he would return every trip with thousands of dollars in gold. His mule team labored under the strain of conveying gold from the secret mine to a railroad junction. Bandits, thieves, desert rats dared not follow him, for the valley is well named.

Branched Out

He continued to make the solo trips. He continued to bring back gold. Then he branched out. He hired special trains for "week-end jaunts" to New York City. He took along his friends. Broadway knows Death Valley's gold—which glitters and is the real thing.

For years Scotty lived in shacks. That was before he "struck it rich." Then he started several years ago to build a palace fit for a king—a palace for "the king of the desert."

Stone, lumber, steel, were gathered and water was piped from crystal cool mountain springs. Slowly the structure arose. Built in Grapevine Canyon at the eastern entrance of Death Valley it commands a magnificent view of the great desert wasteland and the Panamint range.

But as the mansion increased toward completion, Scotty's fame broadened. Tourists came in droves. That which had once been a quiet dignified retreat became as noisy as the Inyo corner grocery on Saturday night.

retreat," said Scotty. "We thought we had it. But we are being run ragged by tourists. They come in droves swim in our artificial lakes and swimming pools, and ask a lot of foolish questions. We've got to find a place where we won't have so many visitors."

So Scotty, who spent $2,000,000 building his place and surrounding it with all his luxuries, marble pools, landscaped terraces, paved highways, will practically abandon his "architectural dream" and with his partner, Albert M. Johnson, build a similar dwelling place up among the clouds where the eagles and the mountain sheep make their home.

Word from Death Valley is that train pack mules already are being gathered to transport material to the new location which, it is said, will be as secret from the public as the location of Scotty's fabulously rich gold mine.

Give Your Druggist a Square Deal

A NATION-WIDE investigation has revealed that neighborhood druggists are called upon for information on a wide variety of subjects—domestic, political, agricultural, postal, and hygienic, besides subjects connected with drugs. This practice—embarrassing as it often must be to druggists—would not have become so widespread if they in general had not merited the confidence reposed in them. The answer to many problems has come from the pharmacist's store of information. And he has led many a person in the early stages of a serious disorder to consult a physician trained to diagnose disease and to prescribe the remedy.

Numerous services are rendered by the druggist for no recompense other than good-will. Give him a square deal. He is a business as well as a professional man. Serve your own interests by remembering him when you are in need of any of the household conveniences which his store has for sale. For druggists with well equipped prescription departments would be few and far between if they had to depend alone on filling prescriptions and the sale of drugs and sick-room supplies.

American Industries Operate at High Rate

By W. S. Cousins
(Copyright 1929 by International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—"American basic industries are operating at an appreciably higher rate than at this time last year, despite the spread of the seasonal let-down that was observed a month or two ago.

"There is not the slightest trace of inflation in commodity prices. "The transportation situation is excellent.

"Stocks of manufactured goods are only slightly, if at all, above normal in relation to output and demand.

"Money is firm and all present indications point to continued firmness.

"Employment has increased and the general expectation is that business will be well maintained during the remainder of the year."

Francis H. Sisson, banker and economist, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, one of America's keenest observers of financial and economic conditions, thus summarized current business and the immediate outlook in an exclusive interview with international news service today.

Mr. Sisson declared that the advance of the re-discount rate of the federal reserve bank of New York last month had produced no startling results, either on the security markets or on the money situation.

"Employment has increased as the high levels of general business activity has been maintained," said Sisson, pointing out also that the increase in employment is not only evidence of larger output and trade in the immediate past, but also a favorable sign for the future, since expanding purchasing power is made available for the buying of consumers' goods.

"KONJOLA WORKED WONDERS," SAYS ALLENTOWN MAN

"Given This Medicine Sooner I Would Have Saved Hundreds of Dollars;" Freed of Indigestion

MR. RAYMOND ROMIG

"Konjola worked wonders for me," said Mr. Raymond Romig, 730 Washington street, Allentown, Penna. "I tried everything that was recommended for indigestion, an ailment that was the bane of my life; but nothing ever gave me even temporary relief. Meals ceased to be a pleasure; after every one I was in distress and daily I grew worse."

"Reading several testimonials, I decided to give Konjola a trial. Imagine my surprise when the indigestion became less severe and then vanished. Konjola quickly put me on my feet so that I could return to my work. Sound sleep was restored and new strength flowed through my body. I feel and look like a different person and I owe it all to Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Bristol at Hoffman's Cut Rate store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—(Adv.)
